To whom it may concern; My husband is a long distance over the road truck driver, since that clearly means that he is not in one place for very long, local stations are are not as useful or as accessible when you need them as readily and as often as a long distance truck driver does. Please be aware of thier "hours of service." Each driver is only allowed to be "on duty" so few hours in the day, that includes waking up, getting loads, unloaded, avoiding traffic jams, road construction, accidents, severe weather storms, tornados, ice storms, etc. and parking during this time. Local stations are not this dependable,nor do they have the area coverage needed,when needed.xm sat. has a station devoted to "traffic and weather" which is why the service was well worth the cost.
